WHERE THEY GOT THEIR PLATFORM.—Some people have been puzzled considerably to understand how a set of men like those who met in Albany last week and enjoy the blessings and the advantages of a republican Government, could find such infamous charges as are made in the resolutions. We have a clue to the mysterious source of the atrocious doctrines. The Metropolitan Record, a paper which calls itself a leading Democratic organ recently announced its position on the war as follows, it must have afforded a portion at least of the platform, which the people of a free State are called upon to approve and justify.

The Southern people (says the editor) are fighting in a just cause, as they are fighting against usurpation and freedom and State rights. They are fighting against a power that has trampled every principle of law and Constitutional liberty under foot. They are fighting for their homes and their dearest rights. They are fighting the battles of the Revolution over again. And so long as they are united and actuated by the spirit which they have thus far exhibited, they cannot be subjugated, and we trust they never will be. Whatever doubt might be entertained in regard to the justice of their cause, there can be none now.

THE ARREST OF GREATHOUSE.—The last capture of this convicted pirate, made by a telegraphic order from the President, is stated by the Sacramento Union, to have been because he violated his parole, given in 1861, when he left Kentucky. This is a grave military offence, punished as the President in his own judgment may see fit. It is reported that he was in the rebel army at Shiloh and at Donelson, and took the oath at both places, and that then on leaving New York to come to California, he swore again but all this did not hinder his perjured action. He richly deserves his confinement at Fort Lafayette, whither it is said, he is to be transported.

THE BLACK ARMY.—The Boston Post, the leading Democratic organ of New England, which has had a good deal to say against the leading measures of the Administration seems to be coming out right, at least, in some respects. It is now strongly in favor of negro troops. It states that "the colored soldiers, prove to be a very efficient force against guerillas, and we are glad to see them on their track. These soldiers know the country infested by the guerillas so well, and the character of the robbers and assassins so perfectly, that they are admirably qualified for the work of their extermination."

A MISTAKE.—We mentioned last week that Mr H Dellinger of Jackson County, had been appointed and confirmed as Collector of Internal Revenue for the State of Oregon. We learned yesterday that a dispatch was received from him saying "I am no collector—commission revoked by Nesmith." Judge Graves, therefore, seems like y to continue in position for the present, as probably the man who will suit the Southern will not take the place for some time.

A FAIR STATEMENT.—S Ellsworth of Eugene City, has been nominated by the Copperhead Convention for Judge of this Judicial District. He is a clever lawyer and a man of fair ability but in receiving a nomination from copperhead will settle his chances of an election, by the people, either now or hereafter.

The above from the Eugene State Journal a paper undoubtedly in its devotion to the Union cause, is both sensible and patriotic. We hope no one will accuse it of lack of fidelity, because while it denounces Mr Ellsworth's politics, it does not deem it necessary to abuse him undeservedly in his private character. He will be defeated, we hope as he ought to be, while he supports a platform which is full of political impurity.

A correspondent of the Washington States man writing from Colville says a Mr Sinklighter, an employee of Hudson Bay Company arrived at the latter place from the the Kootanai and the Columbia Flood mines, reporting that rich diggings have been struck at those mines hands having made enough as twenty five dollars per day with the rude implements of the pick shovel and pan.

There had been a party fitted out at this place and sent up to the mines via the Columbia river and Great Lakes. The object is to ascertain if that country cannot be reached expeditiously by land. Hudson Bay employees say it will take but ten days to reach the gold fields from this place with five ton boats. Should this prove correct supplies can reach the mines and be sold at nearly the Boise prices.

Five steamers were to leave St Louis for the Upper Missouri in April.

Rebels Skedaddle from Fort Pillow after Destroying the Works

Congressional

CHICAGO April 17—Private dispatches of the 7th state that Gen Whiteside reported to have had a skirmish with the rebels on the 1st of March near Rutledge leaving the enemy badly whipped.

The Selma Reporter of the 31st says a hundred mill one of the rebel Gen Polk will soon take up by Lieut Stricklett Tuscaloosa, for iron of the Confederacy has appropriated $1,000,000 to the Selma Government for the manufacture of two hundred field guns and fifty mortars.

Six pieces of artillery consisting of 12 pounder howitzers left New York yesterday for the Army of the Potomac.

NEW ORLEANS April 6—A New Orleans letter states that Gen Banks force would advance to Natchitoches. There has been no fighting on the Washita—the rebels had constructed skirts hung to the outer works with Dick Taylor's rear and things generally were at a standstill at Shreveport.

Capt Todd, nephew of Mrs Lincoln surrendered himself and oath of allegiance, his willingness to take the oath of allegiance.

The New Orleans Era says the French occupied Matamoras without a blow. They had landed and all communication with the interior for the time being was stopped.

CAIRO April 15—A steamboat which passed Fort Pillow on the Hastie Valley reports the white flag flying there. The rebels had not left. Four gunboats were there. Some wounded officers who came up say they begged the enemy not to shoot them after they surrendered. Five wounded negroes in the hospital were buried alive and two had dug their way out with their hands.

Gen Chalmers is reported to have been in command during the first attack on Fort Pillow but Gen Forrest arrived before the battle and assumed command. Forrest with the main force retired in the night to Brownsville, taking with him the captured guns.

CHICAGO, April 17—Letters in regard to the capture of Fort Pillow gave even a more appalling description of the fiendishness of the rebels than the accounts telegraphed. Many wounded were shot in the hospital the remainder were driven out and the hospital burned. On the morning after the battle the rebels went on the field to shoot negroes who had not died from previous wounds. Many who escaped from the works and hospitals and declined to be prisoners of war as the rebels had promised were ordered into line and indiscriminately shot down. Of 300 colored troops not more than 50 or 60 escaped, and not a single officer in command of the colored troops survives. Gen Chalmers told a correspondent that although it was against the policy of his government to spare negro soldiers or their officers yet he had done all in his power to stop carnage. At the same time he believed it was right. Another officer said our white troops would have been protected had they not been found on duty with negroes. The rebels suffered heavy. Three well filled hospitals were a short distance in the interior of the country.

The Greeneville Convention has adjourned sine die the delegates evidently being well satisfied of their inability to settle for themselves the grave questions affecting the welfare of the people of East Tennessee.

LOUISVILLE, April 15—Dispatches from Colonel Gallup of the 14th Kentucky, state that the rebels 1,000 strong attacked his command, numbering 750. After a hard fight, the rebels were repulsed with a loss of seven, and were in full retreat for Pound Gap in Southeastern Kentucky, hotly pursued by our forces. The fight occurred near Painesville. Col True is pushing forward in the direction of Pound Gap, to intercept them.

A small band of guerillas entered Hartford Ohio a few days ago, and robbed the Peoples Bank and several stores. A rumor also prevails that there is a band of guerillas in the vicinity of Shelbyville.

CHICAGO, April 15—Cincinnati telegrams say all the State militia have been ordered out for muster on the 25th. It is also stated that a call will be made on the militia for three months service in garrisoning posts and protecting railways against guerillas while the grand army goes forward to operate against the regularly organized forces of the enemy.

CAIRO, April 16—The force which entered Paducah, Kentucky yesterday, did not number more than 200. They remained about an hour when they were shelled off by gunboats, and three or four killed. They took away a number of government horses. Forrest acknowledges a heavy loss in the fight at Fort Pillow.

WASHINGTON, April 15—The chairman of the Finance committee reported a substitute for the House gold bill, which provides it shall be unlawful to make any contract for the purchase, sale loan or delivery of any gold coin, bullion or foreign exchange at any time subsequent to making the contract or for the payment of any sum fixed, or contingent on a default. The bill passed the Senate and now awaits the action of the House.

The new Internal Revenue bill is a complete revision of the act now in force. It retains the same machinery with such improvements as experience has shown to be necessary. It contains 175 sections, 47 of which are devoted to general provisions, and is the longest bill ever introduced into Congress. Among its prominent features are the following. In addition to the duties payable for licenses to be paid on all spirits distilled sold or removed for consumption or sale at first proof prior to the first of July, 60 cents per gallon after that date, to January first, 1865 $1 00 on and after that date $1 25. All spirits shall be taxed at no lower rate than first proof and the tax shall be increased in proportion for any greater strength of distilled spirits and refined coal oil upon which excise duty is imposed by law, may be removed without payment of duty provided they are removed directly from the distillery to bonded warehouses. And no person and other fermented liquor by wholesale dealers are called must pay a duty of $1 00 per bbl of not more than 31 gallons. Brewers which they have capital not exceeding $300,000 shall pay $100 license and $2 additional for each thousand above that amount. Coal illuminating oil 70 cents per gallon. Ground coffee and substitutes one cent per pound. Molasses syrups five per cent ad valorem. Sugar one and two cents per pound. Paper of all kinds of print, ad valorem. Salt 60 cents per one hundred pounds. Iron $1 60 per ton. Bloom, lab and scrap iron, $1 50 per ton. Steel and hollow ware $4 per ton. Leather of all kinds 3 per cent ad valorem. Cavendish plug twist and smoked tobacco 25 cents, smoking made excelsior and cavendish 20 cents. Snuff and snuff flour 30 cents. Cigars manufactured at $10 per 1000 two dollars valued at $10 to $20, valued at $40, $40.

The committee on postal affairs have reported a bill in the House compelling all railroad corporations to carry the mails for such compensation as may be provided by law. The bill passed.

PROVIDENCE April 5—The second trial to elect members to the Genoral Assembly in this city yesterday resulted in the success of the Union ticket.

NEW YORK April 15—The reason given on the street for the rapid decline in gold yesterday is that Secretary Chase has sold $400 000 to $500 000 sterling exchange. The sale of gold certificates amounts to about $ 000 00.

Dispatches from headquarters of the Army of the Potomac state that a party of rebels is made an attack on Brist station yesterday at noon and were driven off after a brief skirmish. Several were wounded. The mail train with Gen Grafton board passed a few minutes afterward. It is supposed that it was the intention of the rebels to capture him.

Butlers and citizens have all left the army and will not be allowed to return before next fall.

CLEVELAND April 16—The Supreme Court of Ohio decided to day that the law allowing soldiers to vote was constitutional.

NEW YORK April 16—The Tribune's Army of the Potomac dispatch says

An account of three or four brigades to the enemy a force opposite Raccoon Ford is reported on good authority.

The World's special says that several deserters belonging to New England regiments escaped during the recent storm.

The army is being constantly reinforced by the arrival of veterans.

Gen Davis brigade belonging to the 4th corps has been reviewed. Other reviews and drills are in active progress throughout the entire army.

The Herald's special dated Alexandria April 15 says

This morning Moseby with 500 rebel cavalry made his appearance very suddenly on the Orange and Alexandria railroad near Bristo Station, surprising and capturing 200 prisoners and soldiers. The rebels went away in the direction of Fredericksburg.

The Washington correspondent of the Herald says that he has just left the Army of the Potomac this morning and speaks knowingly of prospects. The roads are so much improved as to allow free locomotion and there is nothing to hinder an early movement.

CAIRO April 16—Telegrams from different points in Illinois along the river for the last week in regard to the guerillas who swarm up and down Kentucky shore has been intense. It is known that the 30th 7th and 8th Kentucky rebel regiments are all day and overrunning the entire country here. The citizens of Mercy are in a state of painful anxiety, not knowing at half of the night they would be murdered. Pound Gap boats are constantly patrolling the river and have taken every possible precaution to prevent the guerillas crossing. Fifty horsemen patrol the Kentucky banks of the river day and night. The citizens of Metropolis have formed themselves into companies to defend themselves or perish in the attempt.

The steamer S F Baker left Paducah yesterday afternoon at 6 o'clock with dispatches from Colonel Hawks, at Shreveport Ky. The rebels are 8,000 strong approached and demanded the surrender of the place which was refused. Col Hawkins with 5th Illinois, with a sufficient force was marching on from the fort towards the eastern part of the city when the Baker left to give the rebels battle. The steamer Scatter left there at 8 o'clock last night. All was quiet. There is no fighting.

CAIRO, April 16—The Tele Belle Lt steamer from Memphis since the temporary Rockade Fort Pillow has arrived. The officers state that the rebels evacuated Fort after destroying everything destructible. They burned every building and exploded by blowing up the walls of the fort sections and seven guns works. It is not known what direction they went.

The guerrillas in the vicinity of Duvall's Bluff Arkansas, continue their depredations on the citizens and they threatened to attack the place on the 11th.

Four hundred Texas cavalry attempted to surprise Rosville up the Arkansas. After a fight of four hours the enemy were driven off with a loss of 12 killed and a large number wounded. The Federal forces numbered 250 and lost 9 killed.

WASHINGTON, April 16—General Sherman's dispatches confirm the telegraphic account of the brutal conduct of the rebels after the surrender of Fort Pillow.

According to his report our loss is 59 white troops killed, 100 wounded, and 300 colored troops murdered in cold blood.

The Senate to day instructed the Committee on the Conduct of the War, to inquire into the matter and report at an early day. Largest speeches were made by Conness of California and several others in favor of strong measures of retaliation.

CAIRO, April 8—The naval despatch boat New National, has arrived from Alexandria La., with 1,600 bales of cotton captured by the fleet.

A considerable of a fight is reported to have occurred on Cane river, 35 miles above Alexandria on the 28th of March between General Smith's forces comprising about 8 000 of Dudley's brigade of Lee's Cavalry Corps and Dick Taylor's army estimated at 12,000 strong posted in an advantageous position. The fight lasted about three hours. Our loss was reported at 18 killed and about 70 wounded that of the rebels much greater, some placing it at 300 killed and wounded. We captured 500 prisoners and others are now being brought in. Our troops did not halt on the battle ground, but pushed on in pursuit of the retreating enemy. It was General Smith's intention to force the enemy to make a stand, and to beat him in a pitched battle, if possible. No rest would be given the enemy. A considerable number of deserters had entered our lines.

Idaho.

The following copy of a communication from the Land Commissioner contains some useful information about Idaho, and was drawn out, by a letter addressed to the Indian Department, asking for information, by the Chairman of the House Committee on Roads and Canals.

GENERAL LAND OFFICE Feb 24, 1864.

W. T. Otto, Acting Secretary of the Interior—Sir: Under reference of yesterday I had the honor to receive the inclosed communication of the 18th instant from I tao N Arnold, Chairman of the House Committee on Roads and Canals, respecting the "proposed construction of a wagon road from a point on the present Platte road, near Deer creek, to the head of the Missouri river, where there is now a settlement called Gallatin City, of some three or four thousand persons." In reference to the points of inquiry suggested in connection with the subject by the Chairman, the following is respectfully submitted.

First—As to "the mineral resources of the country about the heads of the Missouri and the Yellowstone, in the Territory of Idaho so far as has been reported to the department." The territorial extent of Idaho is 326 373 square miles, or 208,878,720 acres. Its mineriferous region, as far as discovered, occupies, in the shape of a boot, the larger portion of the western half of that immense territory starting from the Pen d'Oreille lake in the northwestern angle of the Territory, and stretching in a course of south of southeast to within fifty miles of the southern boundary of Idaho, thence easterly to the one hundred and tenth parallel of longitude, thence running in a northwesterly direction in general parallelism with the western outline of the gold fields to the place of beginning, embracing the Bitter Root range of mountains, the richer portion extending from the Clearwater and its affluents to the Boise, the outline being approximately shown upon the map here with inclosed. Besides the precious and useful metals discovered, extensive coal fields are found at different points between the eastern line of the auriferous region and the eastern boundary of the Territory.

While within the last three years the immense region embraced by Idaho was comparatively a trackless wilderness, the rumored discoveries there proved to be a reality, and that, too, beyond estimate attracting an active population now numbering from forty to fifty thousand persons, under the impulse of whose enterprise and energies flourishing settlements have been founded, cities have sprung up from Lewiston on the northwest to Boise in the South, and to Bannock and Virginia City near the geographical center of the Territory.

The rapidity and extent of these mineral discoveries have attracted the attention of capitalists and others, and in defiance of the obstacles to travel a tide of immigration has forced its way into this new and distant land.

Second—The second inquiry is, as to the advantages to be derived from opening up the country by a wagon road from Deer creek on the Platte, to the heads of the Missouri the geographical center of Idaho.

The proposed road would start from Deer creek, on the forty third parallel north latitude, on the one hundred and eighth parallel of longitude, taking a northwest direction making a detour of the Big Horn and Snow Mountain, and reaching the head waters of the Missouri in latitude forty six degrees north and longitude one hundred and eleven degrees west, in length about seven hundred miles. In the first place this new road would shorten the distance to Idaho now travelled by the Utah route, at least five hundred miles. Yet the further advantages are found in the fact that this projected route or second road diversion will form the continuation of the existing first road on the Platte route, the latter extending seven hundred miles to the Missouri river, the eastern boundary of Nebraska. Here begins that vast railway system which is a giant network reaching all over the valley of the Mississippi stretching northward to the forty ninth parallel of latitude, to the great lakes and the Atlantic and thence downward to the southern confines of the republic, comprehending thirty five thousand miles, and costing nine hundred millions of dollars. The advantages of the project will be found in opening this distant region to the restless and dashing frontier men who will bend their steps in this direction over the road destined to open the way to the gigantic progress of the railway. It will be a great boon just and noble measure on the part of the General Government in extending as it has constitutional power to do, proper facilities to its fellow citizens and it will thus aid in establishing there the solid foundations of republican Government, demonstrating its care and affection for its citizens however distant from the political centre of our system. It will furnish facilities for the million and half of men now in arms when they shall be relieved from a state of war to be returned to civil pursuits and to which these rich gold fields will bring ample reward for labor while they will interspersed with fertile valleys and coal beds turn shipping for men and the vital element of the machine shop. Aside from the ultimate benefits of the measure, the road will be a present relief to our people in that boundless enabling them to export their gold product, which at latest advices amounts to fifty millions of dollars.

It should be borne in mind that the Territory is of empire dimensions, averaging 600 miles from east to west, and 500 miles from north to south, being nearly three times the area of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland and of the islands of the British seas, capable of sustaining one hundred millions of people, according to the ratio of population in England to a square mile. Now observe its insulated position, it has as its western boundary some four hundred miles from the Pacific ocean, and its extensive eastern limits are some six hundred miles from the cul de sac of Lake Superior whence begins the chain of water communications to the Atlantic. Then it has a foreign neighborhood, not unaggressive, on the north, and the great central region of the Union on the south, while hostile tribes of Indians range within the limits of Idaho.

This road would be a great economical measure to the Government in transporting supplies in case of Indian difficulties or hostilities of civilized warfare, and as a constituent of the incidental advantages of the measure. It is in place to state here that the valley of the Niorrara, in Dakota, in parallelism with the Platte road, would also be a most advantageous medium of communication through the southern part of the neighboring Territory of Dakota, inbounding in that valley with water and wood. This additional route would offer a junction with the Idaho in such a manner as to open still further facilities of communication and bring to bear upon the common prospects of these Territories the industrial advantages incident to easy access to the older portions of the Union.

Third—The third and last inquiry before me is as to the facilities which the construction of the proposed road would furnish for the establishments of land offices, surveys and the other machinery connected with the disposal of the public land in the Territory of Idaho.

When Congress shall have created the Territory a surveying and land district, our machinery to these ends must necessarily be transferred to Idaho. The road in question will facilitate these results, undoubtedly, and when the surveying corps enter the field it will enable them more easily to obtain supplies; and, as a highway of travel, it will enable our officers to be better informed as to the localities where settlements from time to time may require the extension of the lines of public surveys as an act precedent to the acquisition of title from the United States, and when the offices for the sale and location of the public lands shall be opened, it will enable settlers and others the more readily to reach the seat of the District Land Office. For these and other considerations, the measure, in the judgment of this office is one of grave importance, and must result most advantageously to the people of our country.

With great respect, your ob't serv't,
J M EDMUNDS, Commissioner.

FROM HELLGATE.—Mr John S Caldwell, says the Washington Statesman, writing from Hellgate, Bitter Root Valley, to Mr John A Simms under date of Jan. 31st, says.

On the 24th inst, twenty one of the Vigilance Committee visited Hellgate and hung — Skinner, John Cooper and Alex Carter, and on the 25th they hung Geo Shears and Robert Zachary. At Fort Owen they hung Wm Graves alias Whisky Bill, and in December and January they hung 21 of the rascals. The Committee made their appearance unexpectedly to every one, and they had no trouble in getting their victims. They came to the house where I was stopping had got George Shears and hung him in fifteen minutes. The Committee bury none they hang, so the citizens have to bury the dead.

Some of the robbers acknowledged robbing Trusbn and Sherwood's Rocky Mountain Express, last summer.

The band of robbers had become so bold that if they saw a man venture out alone any distance from his house they would kill and rob him. For instance, at Charles Allen's a man went out about two hundred yards from the house and they attacked him, robbed him of seventy five cents—all the money the poor fellow had—and then beat him over the head with a revolver till they thought he was dead, but he recovered.

Samuel Bunton [brother of Bill] got into a row at Salt Lake and had his bowels cut out.

The merchants of this section cannot go down the Missouri river this season for goods on account of the Sioux Indians, so they will have to get them from some other source—from Portland, provided the Mullan road is put in condition for travel.

ARRIVAL OF THE BROTHER JONATHAN.—The steamship Brother Jonathan, S Wolf Commander, arrived in this city at o'clock P M yesterday. This steamer left San Francisco on the 12th, and brings news of importance, having received dates by telegraph at this office. The list of passengers is a list of the passengers.

J A Lord (Wells Fargo & Co's Messenger) T Cole wife and two children A Warner wife & child R and wife Mr Kenyon wife & child S Ivers and McMaster and wife Chas White wife and two children Goodwin and wife Mrs M Kelson Miss E Kelson James wife and two children S Saylor wife Lewis Mrs Powell J W McKee and wife J M Catron wife and children, S P Sexe wife & [illegible] and child Miss Mary E Smith Miss A Rodgers L Myers A Carriker J K Dimmick Marks, G W Smith John R Bane G W Somers Carpenter, O Cook H W Fairing W A White, P Cassard A F Smith R H Rogers Mrs C Wilhelm Mrs Hammond, H R Kerdall, Mr R S Randall Mrs Rolfe and J J Stein P W Outwater J P Sheridan W R Reynolds and G M Gregg A Englander Miss Bear Miss Mary E Sage Piper L Hogahin Z Abbazal H E Underwood N H Hall M K Fraker H Burns I L Bagley J A Folger J Hillman J Farrell Mrs Walker and daughter Mrs S Wilson E Redroup J S Joseph, B Russell, J Calvert, W Wand 185 others. J H POOLE, Purser.

A FAST TEAM.—One of the teams used in delivering the slab wood furnished at E Simson's saw mill, took fright yesterday while the wagon was being loaded, and paddled at less than a 2 40 rate down First street. In fact they distanced everything and even eclipsed old Eclipse himself for the time. The run was on a straight line for seven blocks, on the busiest street in the city, yet nobody was hurt, nor anything broken until the team took out a couple of awning posts when they run upon the sidewalk in the vicinity of the Post Office. At Alder street they turned towards the river, and were only saved from the perils of a certain death and general destruction, by running astride of a pile, which stopped them. A few leaps more and they would have been precipitated into the wood snow, lying at Kingsley's wharf, with the wagon on top.

A CHARITABLE CASE.—The steamer Wilson G Hunt, Capt John Wolf, arrived from the Cascades at an early hour last evening. Among her passengers there was a poor woman, with a family of small children, that had been furnished with a free ride from Umatilla City, by the O S N Company's line, on their way from Grand Ronde to Salem. They were received on board of the P. C. Company's steamer Senator, where they obtained supper last evening, and will proceed up the Willamette this morning. The poor we always have among us and it is refreshing to know that we [illegible] incorporations which have such generous impulses, and who are ready to aid the sorrowing.

HISTORIC PANORAMA OF THE WAR.—The Theatre has a last been obtained by Mr Bachelder for the exhibition of "Pearson's Grand Historic Mirror of the American War." The proprietor has visited the Dalles, Victoria, and other places, since an application was made for the Theatre building in this city, and we notice that he has been very successful. It is to be exhibited to-morrow evening, and on Thursday, Friday and Saturday evening. On Saturday an afternoon exhibition will also be given.

WHOA! MULE!—The mule is generally accredited as being the most inflexible and obstinate animal of the brute creation, but we see a case yesterday which was "nip and tuck" between the mule and owner for stubbornness. The animal was berated to make it go, and when about to start the task master would rein it up for a fresh beating. So things worked for a long time, when at last the "humane" owner permitted his beast to jog along.

A SPECULATION.—When Bouse was all the go, last season, and chickens scarce in the mines, a farmer from Linn county tried the experiment of "teaming" a load of them to Bannock City, and the operation paid very well. Yesterday we observed a similar lot on the wharf awaiting shipment, bound for the Owyhee.

ICE.—Saloon keepers and lovers of "long drinks" in the hot days of summer are beginning to look about anxiously, and inquire—what shall we do for ice? They need not be compelled to endure the dust and heat without their lemon-ade or sherry cobblers, as will be seen by our advertising columns.

BY THE OVERLAND MAIL.—Charles Barratt has received Godey's Lady's Book for April—an admirable number, which every lady will be glad to see. Its fashion plates alone are worth its cost, as they will give a correct idea how female women look in our eastern cities this spring.

Our [illegible] friends [illegible] quicker via [illegible] homes in [illegible]

BANKERS' RESORT.—Promenaders, and others walking, talking and smoking, will be interested to learn that the Public Square improvements are nearly finished, and soon that will become a great place of resort.

BRICK AND SHINGLES.—The schooner Ellen has received her cargo, which consists of 15,000 brick and 30,000 shingles, for the Fort in course of construction at the mouth of the Columbia river.

CATTLE FROM LONG TOM.—A band of young cattle passed through the city, and crossed the river yesterday, destined for the mining regions east of the Cascades. They hail from the Long Tom country, and look decidedly thin.

SMALL POX.—Fears of the spreading of this loathsome disease at the Dalles, are abating. Mr Holland informs us that four cases only, have occurred, and in those the patients are doing well.

NOVEL LIGHT.—A very "attractive" gas burner may be seen at the office of Mr. C. H. Myres, Plumber, on First street. The novelty consists in its motion, being set with four jets it works as a circular ventilator, forming an admirable light for show windows, etc. Mr. Myers has several articles at his place, worth mentioning, as he is determined Portland shall not be behind other cities, in matters in which he is connected, so we recommend his stock to the community.

The Footsteps of Decay

[The following is a translation from an ancient Spanish poem which bears the title of ——— is surpassed by nothing which we possess, ancient or modern, in the Spanish language except the Ode of Luis de Leon]

Oh! let the soul its slumber break—
Arouse its senses and awake
To see how soon
Life's little day is ebbing away
And the stern reality of decay
Come stealing on

And while we view each passing tide
Down which our fleeting moments glide
Away to free
Let us the present hour employ
And deem each future treasure's joy
Alike vanity

Let no vain hope deceive the mind
No happier time before us lies
To-morrow's sun will rise
Our golden visions, if realized, were brief
Like them the present shall delight—
Like them decay

Our lives like running streams must be
That into one engulfing sea
Are doomed to fall—
The sea of death whose waves roll on
O'er king and cottage, throne and crown,
And swallow all

All like the river's lofty tide
Alike the humble rill
To that grave
Death levels poverty and pride
And rich and poor lie side by side
Within the grave

Our birth is but a start, a place
Life is the running of the race,
And death the goal
There all our glittering toys are brought—
That pale shroud is of all ancought
Is found or sold

See then how poor and little worth
Are all those glittering toys of earth
That lure us here
Dreams false indeed that death must break
Alas! before it bids us wake
We disappear

Long ere the damp of death can blight,
The cheek's pure glow of red and white
Has pass'd away
Youth smiled and fell, was heavenly fair—
Age came and laid his finger there
And where are they?

Where is the strength that spurned decay,
The step that at revelry's light and gay,
The heart's gold prime?
The strength is gone, the step is slow,
And joy grows wearisome and woe
When age comes on

Peter Pepper.

A CHRISTMAS STORY FOR YOUNG PEOPLE

It was Christmas Eve, and the driving snow storm without promised a plenty of nice sleighing for the next day A dozen young people, boys and girls of all ages from four to thirteen, were seated around a blazing log fire, in an old fashioned country hre place telling stories, cracking hickory nuts, eating raisins, and drinking sweet cider, and, to use their own language, they were having 'a jolly good time"

"Now, then, Archie it's your turn" they all exclaimed together we've every one told our story, and we're left yours to the last, because we expect it will be the best'

"All right' said Archie Blanchard, the oldest and biggest boy present "I can tell you a true story that happened about five years ago, and I don't afraid to bet it's just as marvellous as the strangest fairy story that's been told to night"

"A true story! O, Archie, begin! exclaimed a chorus of voices, and taking a good drink of cider, Archie settled himself back in his chair with the air of a veteran tale teller, and thus began

"Well, you must know, when I was nine years old, I went to spend the Christmas holidays with an old friend of father's in the city His name was Clark and they had a boy about my age named Charles, and another little fellow about three or four years old, who could just speak plain, named Frankie, he was as sweet a child as ever was seen, and just as cunning and full of fun as a kitten And hadn't they a splendid house, though! What carpets, and beautiful marble mantle shelves and marble-topped tables, and such things for the Christmas dinner I'd seen turkeys, but I never saw such a jolly big fellow as was brought home there for Christmas dinner, and more raisins and currants and sweetmeats than would last us for a month. Well, we were allowed in the back parlor to play on Christmas Eve, and there was a great many of us—we were having a party all to ourselves just like now, and Mrs Clarke let us do as we had a mind, and Mrs Clarke, was very good to us, and didn't care how much noise we made After we had tired ourselves with raking things out of the ashes, and eating nuts and raisins, some one said, 'Suppose we play hide and seek,' and away we all ran to hide—some up stairs and some down stairs—all to make fun in finding us At last the search began, and it was more than half an hour before we were all found Then we looked around and about to see if we all were there, when suddenly Charlie Clarke screamed out

"O, Frankie! Where's Frankie?" and sure enough, Frankie was nowhere to be seen and we had been everywhere, up and down and in the basement

"He's gone to his mother and got her to hide him, somewhere" said one, and then we all ran to Mrs Clarke, and said we know she was hiding him, and she might as well give him up

"He's not here,' said Mrs Clarke "Charlie, where's your brother?'

"Now, mother, don't you be making believe," answered Charlie, laughing, "we know you have him"

"But I haven't seen him, Charlie, he's hid somewhere, and we must find him—Frankie—Frankie, dear, come to mamma," and Mrs. Clarke ran out of the room, up and down stairs, and all over the house calling him Frankie didn't answer, Mrs Clarke screamed for the servants, and she looked so white and scared that I trembled all over.

"Susan, have you got Frankie down stairs? Bring him to me"

"He's not down stairs, ma'am I haven't seen him since he went into the room with the young gentlemen"

Mrs Clarke fell right down on the chair she was standing by and it made me shiver to see her

Mr Clarke came into the room, then, and ran up to her

"What is it, Mary? Don't be frightened, dear Nothing could have happened to the child, he's in the house somewhere The little rogue knows how to lock the doors, and he's locked himself in some room," and Mr Clark, though he spoke so, looked as scared as his wife He ran up and down the stairs into every room in the house, calling Frankie and so did we all and there wasn't a wardrobe or a closet, or corner in the whole house from the attic down to the basement cellar, that we did not look into, but no Frankie anywhere Mrs Clarke sat shivering and sinking just for all the world like a person with the ague and her face was as white as that wall, and Mr Clarke came in the room and had to hold by a chair to keep himself from falling Suddenly he stretched out his arm towards an open window in the hall that looked right over the yard and he said in an awful voice I shall never forget

"'O God! My darling child'

"Mrs Clarke looked the way his arm pointed, and her eyes seemed to come clear out of her head, they stared so then she gave a scream that I often dreamed at nights I heard again, and fell down like dead Before we could tell what he was going to do, Mr Clarke was out in the back yard and several of us followed him but there was no sign of Frankie as we had been afraid of He hadn't fallen out of that window, and there wasn't another window in the house open So we knew he hadn't been killed that way and he wasn't in the house for we had looked over every inch of it Well his poor mother—it was so long before they got her out of the faint that we all began to cry for her and Frankie and thought she was really dead But at last she opened her eyes and was carried to her room All of us that weren't staying there—that is, all the boys but Charlie and myself—went home sad and sorry enough and poor Charlie never stopped crying all that night Mrs Clarke came down next morning to the breakfast table, and she looked older than my mother does now though she was only twenty five and mother is over forty and her nice brown hair was as white as the snow on the ground Everything was done to discover Frankie, Mr Clarke spent hundreds and hundreds of dollars advertising in the papers and paying policemen to look for him for they thought he had been stolen but from that Christmas Eve to this they've never heard a word about him—at least they hadn't when father last heard from Mr Clarke and that's only a week ago

Archie's story had been listened to without a word of interruption, and when he had finished his female listeners were sobbing and weeping profusely and the boys detained him with a hundred questions and conjectures

In the midst of the general hubbub came a series of quick raps on the kitchen door, that caused the listeners within to start to their feet, and Archie being looked upon as the protector of the party, volunteered to open the door, which he did, admitting a curious elfin looking child, with tangled brown hair hanging around his face and down to his shoulders, and a pair of laughing blue eyes, that seemed to say no amount of hardship or cruelty could deaden the natural liveliness and brightness of his nature He was poorly and thinly clad and though the night was bitter cold, he didn't seem to mind it in the least. He ran over to the blazing fire how ever and placing himself on the hearth with an old fashioned air warmed his cold hands before the cheerful blaze Instinctively the other children gave way to him till he had the hearth entirely to himself, while they stood at a distance contemplating him with wonder, and tolerably certain they beheld Santa Claus himself each one thinking of the thing he most desired, and ready to prefer his request whenever the little fellow should ask it

At last Archie recovered from his astonishment sufficiently to inquire

"Well, youngster, who in the world are you!'

'I'm Peter Pepper, if you must know"

There was a general sigh of disappointment from the young people who had expected to hear another and more familiar name Still they listened with interest to Archie's next question

'And what do you want here?'

'Well I want considerable many things I'd like some of that cider to drink, and some nice things to eat and a few nuts and raisins, and all that you know I don't see why I shouldn't have just as good a Christmas as anybody else I haven't done any harm to anybody, and then there's my old Aunt Molly out in the shed, with ever so much snow blowing in on her, I suppose I ought to bring her something though she don't trouble herself much about me, whether I eat or not, or whether I'm warm or cold but then it snows and she's sick—at least she says she is—you never know when she's lying and when she isn't—but I think she might get a smell of the fire. It would do her good—it has me!" and having come to the end of his long and digressive speech, Master Pepper performed a pirouette, and a shrill whistle on his fingers

Archie Blanchard could not refrain from laughing at the oddities of the strange little figure before him, and comprehending from what he had said, that some unfortunate woman was dying out in the snow, he hastened to his father, and together, they sought the woodshed preceded by Peter Pepper, who led the way there with a running succession of 'hop skip and jumps,' that made him seem more elfin than ever They found the unfortunate woman called by Peter Pepper, Aunt Molly, at the last hours of her life, and together they carried her into a warm and cheerful kitchen The heat seemed to revive her for a few minutes, but she knew she was dying, and refused everything except a glass of wine offered her by Mr Blanchard

"Come nearer sir," she said with all the voice she could command "I have some thing to impart that will be of great importance to the friends of that child I thank God for the opportunity of easing my conscience before I die Listen, sir,—five years ago this night, a wicked man paid me a large sum of money to kidnap that child over there, and to secrete him forever in such a way that his father or mother never would learn what became of him I was a poor miserable wretch, and the sight of gold tempted me I watched the house many evenings, without success, and had almost given up the task as hopeless, when, on Christmas Eve, the devil seemed to favor me I was passing the house where the child lived, and I saw him with his companions, running through the house, and the next thing through the basement window, I saw the little child I was to steal A glance showed me that none of the servants were near him, and opening the door a couple of inches, beckoned him to me He came unhesitatingly and I gave him some sugar-plums I had brought to tempt him with He put one in his mouth, and I threw a shawl over his head and lifted him away in my arms I was a strong woman he was a baby and before he had recovered from his fright I was out of the street, turned a corner, and entered a carriage, in which the man who paid me the money, was waiting I afterwards found out his motive—he had a grudge at the child's father, and took that mode of revenging himself Well I succeeded in keeping the child concealed for several weeks and when I saw the large reward for his recovery—five times the sum I had been paid for stealing him—I was sorely tempted to return him to his parents but this man—his name is Wilkinson—swore he would kill me if I did I didn't dare return him and often as I would have done so since Wilkinson has always watched and threatened and prevented me O God forgive the sin ry I have caused—I am dying—O sir forgive me too and promise to see the child in safety with its parents

'Their name good woman Speak, for Heaven's sake,'

'Clarke—they live m st 'The child's name is Frankie I can say no more—I am

Thank God! This my poor friend's lost child—how blest I am to be made the means of restoring him Even I thank thee'

A smile of content and peace passed over the woman's face at Mr Blanchard's words and she fell back dead—while all the children stood mute looking on the strange scene—the cold, white face and rigid form—the kind hearted man kneeling he first and found until the astonished Frankie, who didn't seem to comprehend anything except that Aunt Molly was dead and even this was still enough to keep crying and hushing him but when at last he was told that he had a good kind mother and father who loved him and had long mourned for him as lost forever and would be overjoyed to find him again, he fell on his knees in the middle of the floor, clasped his little hands and said

"O good God who lives in Heaven You have made me very glad My heart beats with joy as it was too big for his little body, and I thank you very much'

A telegraphic dispatch sent that very night to New York, brought a happy father and mother, and before Christmas Day had passed by the next train And in all the United States from East to West and North to South there was no happier party than sat at the dinner table of Mr Blanchard on that Merry Christmas day

SPEECH OF WILLIAM D KELLY.—The following eloquent passage is an extract from William D Kelly's speech made lately in the House of Representatives in reply to Brooks, of New York

—Sir I am no son of Massachusetts or New England, as the gentleman is but I remember that in my wayward youth, being free from the indenture that had bound me to a long apprenticeship, but not having attained manhood I wandered from my native Pennsylvania, counter to the current tide of emigration, in pursuit of employment, and found a home in Massachusetts and I must be pardoned if I pause for a moment to testify my gratitude to her in whom I found a gentle and generous foster mother I thank God for the Puritan spirit of Massachusetts A boy, poor, friendless, and in pursuit of wages for manual toil, I found open to me in the libraries of Boston, the science history and literature of the world At a cost that even the laboring man did not feel I found night after night and week after week, in her lyceums and lecture rooms the means of intercourse with her Bancrofts her Brown sons, her Everetts her Channings her Prescotts, her Emersons and scores of others as learned and as able, though perhaps less distinguished sons than these I thus learned what it was to be an American citizen and to what length American civilization will be carried, and I found four years of life spent at well paid toil, worth to me what the same number of years in a college might have been I thank the men of Massachusetts, as well the scholars in public school as fashioned upon her principles in the city of Charleston in good time They may be white they may be black they may be yellow, but when the civilization of Massachusetts shall have penetrated that dark city and fashioned its institutions, as it will the pleasure of the pupils in the schools will be to thank God night and morning, for the spirit of Massachusetts which kept liberty alive and finally brought its blessings to the entire people of the country Yes sir Massachusetts in the past two or three years has given a practical application of those principles which ten twelve or fifteen centuries gave freedom to Europe, and is about giving it to all the people of America

EXTRA SIZES.—A requisition was made a few days since on the government for boots for the colored regiment in camp at Quincy Illinois The sizes were so enormous that they could not be procured as Chicago, and the agent had to telegraph to Washington to know what was to be done He was ordered to have the regimental feet measured and send the result to Washington, so that the boots could be constructed there The sizes range from 10 s to 20 s Thus regiment will be apt to "trample on the rights of the South"

HOSTETTER'S

CELEBRATED

CONCLUSIVE PROOF

OF THE EFFICACY OF

HOSTETTER'S

STOMACH BITTERS!

PROTECTIVE MEDICATION

Great Truths

—IN—

SMALL COMPASS!

WHAT THE BITTERS ARE.

A pure delightful Vegetable Balm
To cheer the spirits and the nerves to calm,
Protect the system from Miasma's bane
Rouse torpid Nature and the strength sustain,

THEIR INGREDIENTS.

Juices of plants roots barks, of virtues rare,
By chemic art expressed with patient care,
And the mild spirit of the soothest rye—
Purest of all diffusive stimuli.

RESULTS OF THEIR USE.

Digestion rallies appetite revives
The food assimilates, the patient thrives,
Dyspepsia vanishes, with all its throes,
And peaceful sleep succeeds disturbed repose.

EFFECTS ON THE LIVER.

The bilious sufferer languid listless pale,
Physicked for years perhaps, without avail,
Finds in the BITTERS all he asks or needs,
And lives to smile at doctors and their creeds.

OPERATION ON THE BOWELS.

Relaxed constricted, or the seat of pain,
These organs should not for one day, remain.
The cause of each extreme you can expel—
The BITTERS tone and regulate as well.

EFFECT ON THE DEBILITATED.

The flaccid muscles firmness soon acquire
The frame gains flesh the eye resumes its fire,
Strength to the limbs hope to the heart returns,
Till staff and crutch the convalescent spurns.

BROKEN CONSTITUTION.

The constitution tried by pain or care,
Or wild indulgence is not repair
The genial Tonic, as the healthful dews
Quickens parched herbs its wasted power renews.

CHILLS AND FEVER.

Damp cold exposure to the malarious fog,
Brings in of ills a fearful catalogue,
But intermittents whatso or their kind,
HOSTETTER'S BITTERS scatter to the wind

SICK HEADACHE.

This torment dire, that all enjoyment kills,
Yields not to pungent scents or drastic pills,
Tis from the stomach that it takes its rise,
Tone with the BITTERS, and the anguish flies.

WANT OF APPETITE.

Without due nourishment life's pulses wane,
The blood grows thin and dullness clouds the brain;
But this Elixir sets the system right,
And 'Good Digestion waits on Appetite."

THE BITTERS AFTER SICKNESS.

Exhausting fever leaves its victim low,
And, unassisted Health's return is slow,
Then with the Bitters weakened Nature aid,
Renew each drop vitality is conveyed

AS A GENERAL PREVENTIVE.

By night and day on river, sea or land,
To instant peril of disease we stand,
But its dread arrows harmless seem to glide
Past all, with this invigorant fortified.

IMPURE WATER, ETC.

Roam through the world, through every climate
Here is the antidote against every change, [range,
Water impure it tempers, and insures
Men in all hardships to all temperatures.

SEA SICKNESS

Who has not felt how feebly words essay
The qualms one feels on shipboard to portray!
Dread them no more defy old Neptune's power,
The Bitters cure the nausea in an hour

AN UNADULTERATED TONIC

Of all the liquors borne across the sea
Not one—mark that—from acrid poison's free,
These Bitters stand mid stimulants alone,
Powerless to irritate, though prompt to tone

A MILD APERIENT.

Remember, too, aperient root and herb,
Are blent with those that relaxation curb
In this rare mixture give this fact due weight,
That while the Bitters tone, they regulate

A GENTLE CORRECTIVE.

If on the stomach food to acid turns,
And pungent gas the inner membrane burns,
This grand corrective soon removes the ban,
And from the heart burn frees the inner man

A SAFE AND GENTLE ANODYNE.

Why not with all the opiates dispense
That shake the nerves and paralyze the sense,
When the sure BITTERS soothe both mind and frame
Inviting both to yield to slumbers claim?

THE WORLD'S OPINION

Touching the BITTERS this grand fact is clear,
Their fame fills all the Western Hemisphere
Known in all lands washed by its oceans twain,
HEALTH HOPE and VIGOR follow in their train

AVOID COUNTERFEITS

HOSTETTER'S BITTERS share the common fate
Of all things good Impostors imitate
Of these beware Discreetly use your eyes,
From honest houses purchase your supplies

CAUTION!

The Government Endorsement

In order to guard against the impositions the public are requested to take a printed circular illustrated by engravings of the Seal of the United States through which the Government of the United States officially authenticates every bottle of HOSTETTER'S BITTERS This should be thrown by the Government over the patentees title to the public for their joint benefit and should only be used to mark and cover the fraudulent and counterfeit to strike the eyes of the detective observer Nothing that purports to be HOSTETTER'S BITTERS can be genuine unless the steel letter

It is also proper to state that all BITTERS are sold exclusively in glass and never under any circumstance by the gallon or the barrel Impostors and imitators are aware that the only safeguard the public have against them is that the Government by law requires the engraved Seal and Signature of Messrs HOSTETTER & SMITH and the steel plate above referred to
